The problem is we've created a terribly unbalanced, unfair, and distorted system in the process.

It is theoretically garbage.

It's ALWAYS insiders, which leads to a tranfer of wealth.
ALWAYS from the poor to the rich.
If they just dropped money from a helicopter it would unironically almost kinda work.

I'll await your refutation as to why a special group can create money for themselves and it somehow helps people they didn't create it for.

This explains everything. There's a few reasons they want us locked away at home, with that much M1 in the system they're desperate to suppress spending, that's the lit fuse of an inflation bomb if the population gets out to start spending. Small business will come back very quickly and there's going to be a runaway economy based on cash not credit.
As soon as interest rates start increasing to squash the inflation the cost of this coof debt will be unimaginable and the boom the M1 caused will quickly end in an interest rate induced crash, except this crash will be so heavy because the governments won't be able to get enough tax revenue to service their debt.
Consider the great reset as they know this, they were too stupid/economically retarded to realise they walked into this trap, but behind the scenes there are bankers now explaining it to them. The great reset talk is government selling a debt for equity swap that's about to happen in the next few years.

This coof spending was manufactured, it was a grift, your governments all fell for it because governments are made up of people who are not qualified to run anything, they're neither sceptics or critical thinkers. We owned the banks 12 years ago, now they're about to own us.
